WELCOME TO THE AUTUMN/ WINTER EDITION OF THE 2021 SPORTFISH CATALOGUE

At Sportfish we cater for all fishers, whether you are a seasoned angler or an absolute beginner our team has the experience and technical know-how to fuel your passion. We love the sport as much as you do!

The pandemic has altered all perception of time and it seems like a very long while ago since we published our spring/summer catalogue. Despite the challenges, we hope you made a good start to your season and will continue to fish throughout the colder months too. It can be challenging but with the correct clothing and gear, and an eye to target the right species at the right time, it is hugely rewarding. Get in touch if you would like us to steer you in the right direction.

We have been busy since the last catalogue. For online shoppers we launched a new website employing state-of-the-art technology and innovative design, it's easy to navigate and offers safe, secure shopping. Visit at: www.sportfish.co.uk

We also cemented our relationship with the Angling Trust and joined their fight to protect and improve recreational angling and fish stocks. Discover their membership benefits at: www.anglingtrust.net/membership

Similarly, we have continued to support the Anglers National Line Recycling Scheme (ANLRS) and offer line recycling facilities in our stores. As a company we believe we should achieve the highest standards of environmental practice and support all appropriate initiatives to further this.

We have also partnered with Charles Jardine's Castaway initiative, which supports those affected by cancer and helps improve their physical and mental health through fishing. The Sportfish Game Fishing Centre (Pages 4 & 5) was the location for their inaugural event.

We have also been busy sourcing the very best game fishing kit and have a plethora of new product to share with you, including: new families of Simms and Patagonia luggage (Page 176 and 181). A new range of Ultralite® rods from Hardy (Page 17) and award-winning reels from Greys (Page 58). The new Vision Stillmaniac cassette reel (page 56) will find favour amongst our reservoir anglers and the new Shakespeare Oracle 2 rods (Page 29) offer beginners incredible quality and value for money.

Enjoy the catalogue – and keep on fishing!

Best wishes and tight lines

MEET THE TEAM

Danny R North
Manager

Danny has been fishing for over 40 years and has travelled the world in pursuit of many species of fish. He has visited Arctic Russia and North America in pursuit of salmon and has enjoyed saltwater fly fishing in destinations such as Cuba, Venezuela and North Carolina. Danny is our expert on Sage and Simms products and has visited both companies for extensive training.

Steve Hunt
Assistant Manager

Steve describes himself as an all-round angler, but is happiest with a fly rod in his hand. Over the years he has been lucky enough to fish such destinations as Cuba, Belize, Australia and Norway to name but a few.

Josh Bunning
Sales Advisor

Josh is an enthusiastic trout fisherman and spends his time on both rivers and stillwaters chasing brown and rainbow trout. Josh has great knowledge of all types of trout fishing and will be happy to pass on his experience to both beginners and seasoned anglers.

Chris Ryan
Buying & Catalogue Manager

Chris has a keen interest in all types of game angling having fished all around the world. Chris is our big game, saltwater spinning and Irish salmon and sea trout expert.

THE SPORTFISH SHOW 2022

We've missed you!

Our groundbreaking Virtual Sportfish Show was a huge success, with record numbers logging on last April to watch a weekend packed full of instruction and demonstrations – but nothing beats the buzz of a live event, oh how we have missed you all!

We are currently making plans for 2022 and whatever the world throws at us you can be sure there will be a Sportfish Show and you are all invited to it.

Keep up to date with the very latest Show news and information on our website at www.sportfish.co.uk/sportfishshow

and via our Facebook and Instagram channels.

SPORTFISH TRADE-IN PROGRAM

We all want to use the best kit and get the most from our fishing. However, each season technological improvements in rods, reels, and other equipment seem to get faster and faster.

Sometimes it's difficult to justify "trading up", especially if you bought a new rod or reel just a few seasons ago and it's still in good condition and working fine.

At Sportfish and Farlows we want you to enjoy every minute you spend fishing. If you really want that new piece of kit then we are here to help you get it.

Our approach is simple and straightforward:

1. Come in and see us and bring the rod or reel that you would like to trade-in with you. If this is not practical call our mail order centre on 01544 327111.
2. We will consider a trade-in deal on any good quality rod or reel that is made by a premium brand eg. Hardy, Sage, Guideline, Orvis, Loomis, Loop, Abel, Waterworks Lamson, Nautilus, Tibor etc.

It must be in good condition, and have a reasonable resale value. We can also sort out minor repairs if required.

3. We've been running this trade-in program for a long time so we've already worked out the best price we can offer for a wide variety of rods and reels. For items that are not already on our trade-in list we can usually work out a price quickly.

4. You tell us what you what want to buy and we'll do our very best to offer a great trade-in on that new product.

5. Assuming we can agree a deal, we will take your old tackle off your hands, and you will be the proud owner of the latest and best rod or reel available.

6. We will then clean up and sell your old item in-store or online.

It really is that simple, so come and talk to us.

We won't always be able to help but we'll certainly try our best. Assuming we can help, you'll get great new kit at a reduced cost, you'll feel good about recycling, and somewhere a fellow angler will be very happy to take on your old tackle.

Everybody wins.

SPORTFISH GAME

For ALL your game fishing requirements

The Sportfish Game Fishing Centre at Theale, near Reading, Berkshire, is the perfect venue for showcasing the very best the game fishing world offers and with the latest tackle from all the leading manufacturers housed within 1500 sq. ft. of showroom and an expert team on hand to advise and instruct, what more could you possibly want?

Staff expertise

Our expert staff have a vast knowledge of every aspect of game fishing, both in the UK and abroad, and are more than happy to help, advise and discuss any requirements you may have.

Try before you buy

This is where we really stand out! The ability to try rods on our lake is a fantastic facility and with tackle becoming ever more expensive it avoids purchasing mistakes before they happen - you'll probably get a few tips along the way too! We also part exchange rods and reels to ensure you can always keep up with the latest developments in the sport.

Lessons and tuition

Our location is perfect for tuition and with Haywards Farm Lake we have a 12-acre venue with casting platforms both above and below the water, allowing you to perfect every cast from a single-handed overhead to the more technical snake rolls and snap T's.

Our casting instructors: Chris, JT and Robin, are available to deliver the very best in fly casting instruction and game fishing tuition. Whether you are an absolute beginner, an improver or an experienced angler looking to sharpen up before a trip, we can tailor a lesson to your exact requirements, from single and double-handed disciplines to more advanced techniques.

As well as hourly lessons and group tuition we provide beginner's stillwater days and introduction to, and improver fly tying courses. We also offer tailored junior tuition on our new Kingfisher Pond as well as one day courses on chalkstreams, rivers and lakes throughout the year.

FISHING AT THE SPORTFISH GAME FISHING CENTRE

Set amidst 45 acres of delightful Berkshire countryside the Sportfish Game Fishing Centre offers fishing of the very highest quality on two lakes and one small beginner's pool.

Haywards Farm Lake

At 12-acres our day ticket water is spring fed and crystal clear. It has an abundance of fly life that makes for exceptional sport.

The superbly sculpted landscaping allows for excellent access and unimpeded casting. Bays, promontories, reed-fringed margins and variable depths afford a variety of different fishing opportunities and our aeration equipment helps to ensure year-round sport of an exceptional quality.

Regular stocking is with a mix of high quality, full-finned rainbows with a high proportion of blue and brown trout. The fish average around 3lb, with plenty in the 5lb to 8lb range, and there is a good head of doubles with rainbows to over 13lb and browns to 15lb.

There is ample free parking and a lodge offering a lounge area, kitchen, toilet facilities, drinks vending machine, microwave, fridge and outside picnic and barbeque areas.

All our tickets include catch and release fishing once the catch limit is met, so a full day's sport is assured.

Stocked with: rainbow, brown trout and blue trout.

Haywards Farm Lake ticket prices	Price
Full day catch & release (C&R)	£30.00
Evening C&R (from 5pm)	£20.00
1 fish + C&R	£35.00
2 fish + C&R	£40.00
3 fish + C&R	£45.00
4 fish + C&R	£50.00

A maximum of 2 children under 16 can fish free of charge, sharing a fully paid adult ticket.

Hobby Lake

Our exclusive 5-acre Hobby Lake is available for private hire for parties of 4-10 fishermen.

This is a perfect venue for friends and family to get together, or on which to stage small corporate events. Like its bigger brother, Hobby Lake is spring fed, crystal clear and full of fly life. Offering superb floating line fishing with nymphs and dry fly, it is stocked with rainbow, blue, brown, golden and tiger trout to double figures. The lake is always rested between bookings, so is not heavily fished, giving you every chance of a red letter day.

Price includes the exclusive use of Hobby Lake, Hobby lodge, barbeque facilities, 4 fish to be retained per person.

We supply all you need for a blissful day, all you have to bring is your own food and drink.

Stocked with: tiger trout, brown trout, blue trout, golden trout and rainbow trout.

Hobby Lake prices	Price
Exclusive use of the lake for up to 4 anglers.
4 fish each	£375.00
Additional fishermen to a maximum of 10	£75.00 per person

Non-fishing guests are welcomed free of charge by prior arrangement.

Encouraging youngsters to engage with nature conservation and learn about fishing and the wider aquatic environment is challenging but Sportfish, in conjunction with the Environment Agency, has done just that with the creation of Kingfisher Pond.

Planted with a diverse range of native aquatic plants and stocked with young trout it is a key part of the Sportfish tuition scheme to benefit both youngsters learning to fish and those simply looking to explore the aquatic environment.

Fishing on Kingfisher Pond

Fishing lessons on Kingfisher Pond cost £25 and last for 30 minutes. A parent or guardian must be present at all times if the fisher is under 16 years of age.

The session includes fly casting tuition with one of our instructors and one trout to take home. If you wish to catch and keep further fish during the session, these may be purchased at £4.95 per lb (454g).

If you just want to fish the pond, without a lesson, the cost is £5.00 per day. All trout must be retained and will be charged at the rate above.

About the species of trout we stock

Rainbow trout - Are the most common species of trout stocked in UK stillwaters, and for good reason as they are prolific feeders, feeding on insects, crustaceans and small fish. They are well known for their acrobatic aerial displays and very long runs. Rainbow trout respond well to both natural and lure patterns.

Brown trout - Are indigenous to the British Isles and are found in both rivers and stillwaters. They are typically streamlined with a strong, muscular tail and vary widely in colouring. Brown trout are often found deeper in the water column than rainbow trout, however they often come to the surface to feed on dry flies later in the evening. Brown trout respond well to natural fly patterns and lure patterns later in the season.

Tiger trout - A cross between a male brook trout and a female brown trout. They occur naturally in the USA but are bred under hatchery conditions within the UK. Tiger trout often feature a large jaw and have a beautiful tiger stripe pattern across their flanks, hence the name. They prefer to feed near the bottom of the lake and are often caught with black lures.

Golden rainbow trout - These are bred under hatchery conditions in the UK. They originated from a single mutated colour variant of a rainbow trout that was originally found in a fish hatchery in West Virginia in 1954. They are easily spotted by anglers due to their bright golden colour and as such they soon become tricky to catch! Golden rainbow trout respond well to natural patterns and often require a more delicate approach.

Blue rainbow trout - These are bred under hatchery conditions in the UK from a naturally occurring gene mutation, similar to the golden rainbow trout. They are easily identifiable by their distinctive blue colour and blue eye. Blue trout are renowned for their strong fighting ability and are often caught on naturally fished patterns.

All our top quality trout are supplied by Bibury and Torre Trout Farms.

River Fishing Essentials

Apart from a rod, reel and line, there are plenty of other bits of kit you'll need when you first venture out onto the water. It's important to protect your eyes when casting, to wear appropriate clothing to protect you from the elements and to carry a range of tackle items to help you make the most of your day. For those looking to kit themselves out on a budget, we've put together our recommended river fishing outfits, designed to ensure you're fully equipped without breaking the bank.

PURCHASING A SINGLE-HANDED FLY ROD

Decisions, decisions, decisions...

Purchasing a single-handed fly rod is almost as angst ridden and loaded with nervous excitement and self-doubt as buying that first home or car, arguably worse. Why? Dreams, aspirations and hopes are bound up in that leap into the unknown and what doesn't help is that there are few bad rods out there. Most are serviceable, many are impressive.

So, where does one start? Three things should guide you: your preference and gut feel, your budget, and the rod's intended application and suitability for its intended task.

It is vital that you are comfortable with your purchase and much will depend on application, but does the handle fit? Does it accommodate your hand shape? If I am using 10ft, heavier line (#6-8) rods I personally am not a fan of short, western-style handles, especially without a small, cork fighting butt below the reel seat - but that's just me, you may be different, but it is a consideration and just one of many.

Set yourself a price that you can comfortably afford, don't be tempted to waver and go beyond it (as we know you will be). You will doubtless want a good line and reel with the purchase too, so work within a budget and feel comfortable about the outcome, both physically and fiscally. The overriding element is what and where you fish so let that be your guide. It is no use trying and falling in love with a beautiful rod that is hopelessly ill-suited to the waters you fish.

There are, of course, fly rods that cross the divide. A medium-to-fast action (see my action guide below) 9' #5 or #6 rod will carry you around the world and embrace species from trout, sea trout, the odd Icelandic salmon (if you are fortunate), bonefish and a myriad of smaller sporting species. In trout terms, you can happily fish sizeable rivers, smaller stillwaters and, at a push, reservoirs. Don't fall into the trap of seeing the antediluvian 2-piece rod as 'sweeter' than the prevalent 4-piece counterpart. Chances are it won't be. Things have changed and a multi-sectioned rod is preferable in so many ways, not least transportation.

I could go on and on and descend into a lexicon of angling terms that would baffle and befuddle but what is the point? My view is that you should try a whole range and let your hands and wallet determine your decision - allied to the product technicalities offered by an impartial and knowledgeable sales assistant - Sportfish are first rate in this respect, they fish and they know their fly rods.

As a rule of thumb:

River Rods

Small rivers and brooks

6'6" to 8' rods in the #2-4 weight line category. Try lines with rods, you may feel that a #2 rod is best loaded for short casting with a #3 line (I am with Simon Gawesworth of RIO on this issue - double tapers!)

Medium to large rivers

On chalk streams and freestone rivers such as the Wharfe, Usk and Clyde etc. Choose an 8'6" as a minimum, even extending to the more specialist 10' #3-5, which is great for nymphing and classic wet fly fishing.

Mayfly

Rivers are popular during this period and many anglers prepare for this one occasion only, but turning over a big, bushy Mayfly is NOT the place for delicate #2 fly rods. A 9' #4 is better and a #5 will do a good job.

Lake Rods

Small Stillwaters

You can get by with the shorter style of rod for stalking and clear water use, a 9' #5-6 is perfect (so you can have a river rod, too) or you can use the longer rods - the 10' #6/7. Much depends on your angling persuasion, you MUST consider where you are going to fish and the styles of fishing you wish to adopt. There is no reason trying to get a 9' #5 to propel a heavy, sinking line and a booby - it can be done, but gosh, what a struggle! Me? I love a 9'6" #5 but that is me being contrary.

Big Reservoirs

Friends fish Grahame Water from the bank very effectively with a 9' #5/#6. Would it be my first choice? No. Far better to use a 10' #7 that will work well from the shore AND the boat. And let's not forget the oft overlooked 9'6" for #6 or #7 it's a great length of rod and huge fun.

Many prefer a 10' #8 for the sheer ability to ping out a long line towards the horizon but remember the heavier you go, the less fun you will probably have. It's your choice: expediency versus joie de vivre.

And of course, by selecting the last cluster of rods you have something very serviceable for sea trout and light salmon. Win-win.

Action Guide

Through action: The deeper the rod bends through its entire length, the slower the action and the wider the loop of fly line that is formed during the cast. Good for classic loch style drift fishing with a team of flies and near continuous roll casting a short line. Good too for wet fly fishing on rivers.

The workhorse and common action attributable to most rods now is what is referred to as middle-to-tip. The rod bends less than the former and throws a happy balance of line loop, close and tight enough to travel, wide enough to alleviate tangles and provide delicacy - a brilliant all-rounder.

Last and by no means least, fast or tip-actioned. If you are reading this modicum of advice and guidance this action is probably NOT for you. This is a very personal rod action for experienced hands. Try it but be warned - tight loop heaven and 'casting god' status beckon - but fishing pleasure can diminish.

The only other consideration is the most vital, is it FUN to use? Does it meet the criteria that you want from a fly rod? If it puts a smile on your face after a few casts with the right line then it's job done - as long as it's within budget!

BEGINNER'S GUIDE

CHOOSING A DOUBLE- HANDED FLY ROD

Part of my job is to advise on fly fishing equipment and, perhaps not surprisingly, the question I'm most often asked is: "What fly rod do I need?". "Which fly line?" is right up there too...

Asking what salmon rod you should buy is like asking how long your leader should be, there is no single answer for every situation. Thankfully, unlike a golfer who may need a different club for every part of the course, one salmon rod can cover more than one situation – but not all of them – and having the wrong tool for a given job can be a painful experience.

As far as your budget is concerned, salmon rods range from £100 to £1000 but spending a lot of money is not always a guarantee that you will be at one with your new rod. High end rods may offer state of the art technology with lightweight and responsive carbon, top quality cosmetics and, in some cases, a lifetime guarantee with excellent after sales should the worst happen. However, these factors may not be that important if you are simply 'testing the water' regarding salmon fishing. Ultimately, you should spend as much as you can afford.

Price aside, the main questions to ask yourself are where and when will you be fishing, as the size of river and time of year will dictate the size of flies and type of lines you will be using.

Let's start at the beginning of the season, on a big, early spring river. In these conditions you require a rod that:

- Can handle heavy lines/shooting heads/fast tips and turn over large tube flies
- Is capable of long casts in harsh conditions and difficult winds
- Can play fish hard in heavy water without folding
- Can mend line and steer heads (often sinking) at range, to give effective water command

The ideal tool would be a 15' #10 or #11 and my preference would be for a fast action rod capable of delivering high line speed. Such rods have a steely feel and, providing the caster has the necessary technique and room, can wind up a lot of tension during the cast to fire line a long way, even in gale conditions.

A smaller rod, such as a switch (a rod between 10ft and 12ft that can also be cast single-handed), would be a severe disadvantage in these conditions but they offer advantages on smaller summer rivers in low water when you will be fishing lighter line weights.

Switch rods:

- Are less cumbersome and, in conjunction with shorter heads, make drawing flies in slacker pools more effective
- Allow delicate presentation with light line

- Require less room behind the fisher to make the cast, opening up overgrown or steep-sided river sections
- Are lighter in action and easier to load without much line behind the caster, making it easier to achieve a squarer cast in areas of limited space

The middle ground between the fifteen-footer and the switch would be either a 13' #8/9 or 14' #9/10.

Although only a foot shorter 14-footers feel surprisingly light in the hands compared to 15-footers. This length of rod has been gaining popularity in recent years, mostly down to advances in the line systems that are now available. Lines such as shorter shooting heads and Skagits enable large flies and fast tips to be cast much more easily than in the old days of full sinking lines (the preserve of 15-footers).

A 14-foot rod is great for floating line work on big/medium rivers in conjunction with Spey lines and it's not hard to see why they are considered the new all-rounder. However, as with anything termed 'all-round' there is a trade off in certain situations and being a foot shorter they are compromised in lifting heavy lines and turn over compared to 15-foot rods and the advantages of a switch rod are lost on small rivers.

13-foot #8 or 9 rods are the preserve of smaller/mid-size rivers or, for my own part, floating/sink tip work with smaller flies on low water big rivers. But what, you may ask, are the failings of a switch rod in these circumstances? The answer is simply range, add a head wind into the equation and I have been beaten in reaching the required distance. It is worth noting that being a couple of feet shorter a switch rod is not always the best choice for short to medium-length Spey lines (often between 50ft and 65ft in length) which I find a great choice for this type of fishing. Short rod/long line is a combination that a lot of people struggle with in my experience.

For the past couple of seasons I have drifted between a fifteen-footer and a switch rod and I haven't been too compromised. However, I remind myself that no two seasons are ever the same and this year could be different! If I had to be nailed down to just one rod for the fishing I do I would opt for a fourteen-footer despite the fact I would be slightly over gunned in some situations and under gunned in others.

Finally, I feel it is worth pointing out that some rods are sold as line specific, such as shooting head or Skagit or a Spey line rod. I accept I need to have different lines at my disposal but I really do not want to take four rods with me every time I go out. Thankfully, many rods can handle many different types of line system and this is question worth asking when purchasing – the Spoffish team has a comprehensive understanding of all models and casting styles and will be happy to advise you.

Rod of choice for high performance extreme situations

“ A powerful new fly rod from Hardy designed for the most challenging of fishing conditions. ”

Hardy Ultralite® X (Extreme) Rods

If you're faced with extreme wind, require serious distance casts or have to throw bulky flies, this rod is made for you. The Ultralite® X rises to those challenges with a significantly faster action than Hardy's standard Ultralite® rods and a super-fast recovery rate for driving tight loops forward with precision. The rod's powerful butt section has been designed for lifting sunk lines, throwing lines with aggressive front tapers and for putting some serious pressure on hard fighting fish.

Key Features

Sage DART Rods (KonneticHD Technology®)

The lightest, most precise casting stream rod ever made.

The Sage DART features a short-range fast action for chasing wary trout in clear water, close quarters or obstacle-ridden streams. Specifically designed to cast precise loops while still providing delicate presentations and delightful feedback to the angler. The KonneticHD materials combined with performance-friendly fast action gives fishermen the ultimate competitive advantage against highly selective trout. The ultra-light 7ft Gins models provide the backbone of this family while the shorter 6ft Gins model provides the specialist rod for the angler looking for accuracy in extremely confined areas.

Scott Flex Rods

The Scott Flex rods feature X-Core technology with a multi modulus design resulting in rods that are light, effortless and forgiving. They let you focus on fishing better. Flex rods generate line speed and tight loops effortlessly, helping you cast accurately and control your fly presentation. Their powerful butt sections help with quick, positive hook sets and fish control. Scott Flex rods incorporate many of the innovations found in the award winning Scott Radian and Meridian series, but at a great price. Each and every Scott Flex rod is handcrafted from start to finish in Montrose, Colorado, USA.

Key Features

- X-Core technology delivers blanks that transmit feel and maintain stability
- Multi-modulus design – fibres with different modulus are designed into specific sections of each rod, improving flex and recovery
- Scott's Natural Finish – makes the rod lighter, more durable and better performing
- Titanium framed SIC stripping guides
- Top grade Portuguese cork handles

Scott Centric Fly Rods

Scott's new Centric fly rods are designed to combine feel with fast action performance. Delivering new levels of stability, recovery speed and casting range, they provide anglers with plenty of feedback through easy flexing tip sections and highly transmissive blanks.

The result is a rod that enables high line speed, flat, stable loops and superior distance and accuracy with minimal effort from the caster. The Scott Centric series is a great choice for anglers of all skill levels and they are a joy to fish at both short and long range. The ability to control loop shape and line speed at any distance makes them a highly versatile family of rods.

Centric rods combine new tapers and a new resin system to increase fibre density and reduce weight, providing high level ARC reinforcement for greater strength along multiple axes.

Scott Centric rods are completed with Flor grade cork, titanium stripping guides with super slick zirconia inserts, low glare Snakebrand Universal snake guides and a fully milled reel seat, all handcrafted in the USA from the finest materials.

Key Features

-  ReAct
ReAct technology increases the recovery speed and minimises vibrations which maximise the feel and efficiency of the cast
-  Carbon Link
Carbon Link construction technology makes a lighter more efficient rod
-  Arc 2
Advanced Reinforced Carbon2 improves strength, accuracy, and line control
-  X-Core

Vision Nymphmaniac Fly Rods

Vision Nymphmaniac rods, designed by some of the best European competition anglers, offer exceptional performance at a reasonable price. Built to be super lightweight for long days on the river, and with a blank that dampens immediately after your cast – crucial for sustaining contact and feel with your nymphs. The Nymphmaniac has enough power in the tip so hooking a fish is effortless but at the same time they bend enough when fighting a fish using the powerful butt section of the rod.

Key Features

- Four-piece, specialist Euro nymph action
- Sanded unpainted blanks with green markings
- Extremely light and sensitive
- Small and light single leg guides
- Last guide before tip is a small snake guide to prevent line tangling around the guide

Vision Stillmaniac Fly Rods

The Vision Stillmaniac is a small family of fast action fly rods designed by competition anglers especially for stillwater fishing, helping you achieve maximum distance and power no matter how challenging the conditions are.

- The 10'0" #7 is a fast and powerful rod and was made with long casts and deeper sinking lines in mind. A superb all-round boat rod
- The 9'9" #7 is also a fast rod and is ideally suited for distance casting from the bank or boat with a range of lines
- The 9'9" #6 is a fast rod but a touch more sensitive than its bigger 10'0" brother. This version was made for fishing closer to the surface with floating, midge tip and intermediate lines

Key Features

- Four-piece, fast action
- Slate blue blanks with orange markings
- Extremely powerful yet lightweight
- Light single leg guides
- Length measurements on the rod at 40, 50, 60 and 70cm

Guideline Elevation Fly Rods

Guideline Elevation Rods utilise the very latest in fly rod material and pattern technology, as well as making strides by using several more environmentally friendly components. These rods have a sensitive and responsive tip section combined with a smooth, progressive curve further down the blank, before meeting a powerful butt section. Easy to cast, forgiving and capable of producing accurate casts at high line speed, they are a great choice for anglers of all abilities and for a wide range of fishing scenarios. To minimise its environmental footprint the range uses low-toxic bio-based epoxy resins, does away with lead-containing chrome plating and utilises recycled REPVEVE™ polyester for the rod bag and tube cover.

Key Features

- Dark graphite grey matt blanks with no added colouration
- Medium-fast action rods
- Sustainable production and eco-friendly components
- 3-A cork handles
- KW style stripper and light wire single leg guides
- The rod tubes are made of recyclable polypropylene

EURO NYMPH FISHING

Euro nymphing was created to catch spooky fish in shallow, slow flowing rivers. It has now been adapted to fish fast water up to a metre or so deep. However, the French leader is extremely versatile and can be used to fish all types of water.

The Euro nymph leader itself is made up of an extremely long tapered monofilament leader and is designed to be fished on long, soft fly rods. At the end of the tapered leader there's a short indicator piece. From the indicator you have your tippet and flies. You should vary the length of your tippet to the depth of water you're fishing: 3ft feet deep = 3ft tippet.

The important thing to remember when using a Euro nymph leader is to flick or lob the flies rather than cast. Unless you're fishing extremely long distances you rarely use fly line when fishing this method.

Snowbee Knotted Tapered French Leaders

A 12½ft – Tapers from 0.55mm down to 0.15mm (4.1lbs). 6 sections with a Hi-Viz orange indicator attached. Looped at both ends.

B 16ft – Tapers from 0.55mm down to 0.10mm (2.4lbs). 6 sections with final 2 sections in clear monofilament. Looped at both ends.

Code 17A0066 £4.99 each

RIO 2-Tone Indicator Tippet

2-Tone 8" sections of alternating fluorescent pink and chartreuse tippet with clear colour changes. The best indicator material for building nymphing indicators. 30yd spool.

FLY FISHING FOR PREDATORY SPECIES

Fly fishing for predatory species - pike, zander or perch in freshwater or for bass, pollock and mackerel in saltwater - is rapidly growing in popularity within the UK. When you can't chase trout and salmon on our rivers and lakes why not head to the coast, a local canal or secluded pike lake for some alternative but exhilarating sport?

We have put together a small selection of tackle that is ideally suited to targeting any of these species. But, as always, if you would like more detailed help or information, please give Danny or any of his team of advisors a call (01544 327 111) or call into one of our stores and we will be delighted to help you.

RIO Predator Elite Fly Line

“When choosing a reel, it is imperative to first decide what fish you want to target”

John Horsey

CHOOSING A FLY REEL

John Horsey
Top UK Professional Fly
Fishing Guide

Fly reels come in all shapes and sizes but their primary function is to store a fly line and sufficient backing to cope with the strongest of fish. Clearly, the rod plays an important role in playing a fish but it is essential to have a reel that also does the job.

For example, some saltwater species will run for hundreds of metres and are almost impossible to stop. In these situations, you require a reel with the capacity to hold several hundred metres of backing and which is equipped with a reliable disc drag to carefully slow the fish as it runs.

Other fish, such as grayling on our UK rivers, do not make long, fast runs but tend to use their huge dorsal fin to kite across the current and therefore large arbor reels and disc drags are not necessary and in place a simple click-and-pawl check will suffice.

What species are you fishing for?

When choosing a reel, it is imperative to first decide what fish you want to target.

My normal day job entails guiding on Chew Valley and Blagdon lakes from a boat. When fishing for trout, I will use a smaller reel than when I am targeting pike on the fly and when river fishing I use reels designed to carry #4 weight lines to complement my lighter rods. If I'm fishing for salmon on bigger rivers then my reel must be large enough to hold #9 and #10 weight lines, complete with enough backing to handle a big, fat salmon fresh in from the sea. On the subject of the sea, the reels I use for my saltwater fishing need to be large and able to resist the corrosive effect of sea water.

What does 'large arbor' mean?

The reel's arbor size refers to the diameter of the spool. Large arbor reels are popular because:

- They store your fly line in larger coils, reducing line memory problems
- They retrieve faster due to the larger spool size
- The drag operates more smoothly because the wider spool creates less start up inertia

TOP TIPS

After saltwater use, wash reel thoroughly in fresh water. Check for salt residue before packing away. Wash again if necessary.

Steve Hunt

Follow manufacturer's maintenance guide for tip-top performance. Keep reel in protective case to avoid damage.

Types of drag systems used on fly reels

The simplest drag is the 'click-and-pawl' system whereby a spring pushes the pawl into a gear on the reel's spool to create both tension and a clicking noise as line is pulled off the reel. Reels with this type of drag may feature a screw or knob that adjusts the tension but they have their limitations - fine for light trout fishing.

More sophisticated reels designed for fast running fish have a 'disc drag'. This works by pushing a pad against the reel's spool or braking surface to provide the correct level of drag.

There are two types: 'sealed' drags that prevent dirt entering the mechanism but are tricky to maintain, and 'open' drags that are easily dismantled for servicing but susceptible to sand and dirt.

'Open' types require regular attention, particularly those with cork surfaces.

Some anglers monitor the tension on the spool by 'palming' (cupping the rotating spool with the palm) and for this to work you need a reel with an exposed spool rim.

Reservoirs and lakes

I normally use WF7/8 fly lines when reservoir fishing for trout and my favourite reel is the Hardy Ultradisc 6000, which comes with two spare spools. It has a superb disc drag to slow the runs of fit summer rainbows hooked at range on dry fly and light tippet. I am also a great fan of this cassette system of reels, which means having one reel but many spare composite spools to hold a full range of floating, sinking, intermediate and sink tip lines. The ingenious spool coding system makes fly line selection a real breeze!

The larger Hardy Ultradisc 7000 reel is perfect for use with my Hardy Zane Pro 9' #9 rod when fishing for Chew's huge pike. These massive, toothy critters often bore deep when hooked and bend the rod double, so I need to fully utilise the reel's disc drag, which is so important when applying direct pressure.

River fishing

For most UK rivers, rods ranging from 8'6" to 10' are the norm, with line ratings varying on the size of river and species being chased. Large arbor reels with disc drags are not necessary for these smaller rivers and lighter lines but, if you decide to head further afield to places like New Zealand, you will need more robust tackle and reels which can handle the run of a 6lb plus wild rainbow trout in wide, fast-flowing water.

Salmon anglers using double-handed rods require large arbor reels that can hold a 9/10 Spey-casting line and sufficient backing. Due to the design of the fly line taper, this reel needs to be much bigger than, for example, one to hold a WF10 saltwater fly line.

Left or right hand wind?

I am right handed and as such, cast and hold my rod with this strongest hand. I therefore set up all my reels to be left hand wind. Tradition used to dictate that fly reels were set up as right hand wind for right handed people - something I have never understood and never subscribed to! However, if you prefer to switch to your weaker hand when playing a fish to enable winding the reel with your right hand, then so be it. It's purely a matter of personal choice.

Hardy Ultradisc Cassette Reels

Hardy once again raises the bar with their new Ultradisc Cassette Reel, featuring a lightweight frame design, built-in line guard to protect thin running lines and a full disc drag for serious fish-stopping power. Changing spools is quick and easy thanks to the re-introduction of the popular CLS locking system. Cassette reels used to be the preserve of the stillwater and reservoir angler carrying a multitude of sinking lines, but the introduction of a #4/5 model in the range as well as a #9/10 now opens up so many possibilities for river fishers, pike fishers and salmon fishers too. Supplied in a convenient case with two additional cassette spools.

Key Features

- Bar stock aluminium frame and spool carrier
- Durable polycarbonate spool

Lamson Litespeed LSF 'Fresh' Reels

The Litespeed LSF is the newest Litespeed freshwater reel with the quickest retrieve rate of any Waterworks Lamson reel. The chassis is based on the successful conical system found in all other Lamson reels, with the addition of a click stop drag knob and a unique spring system that creates a smooth and very fine adjustability at the light end of its range. The spool and frame are 'super-arbor' in scale for quick line retrieval and to reduce weight.

Format: Super Large Arbor
Materials: Machined aluminium and stainless steel
Finish: Hard Alox
Colour: Fuego

Lamson Cobalt Reels

A big game powerhouse of a reel packed with technical breakthroughs such as the dual-axis machined frame and embedded reel foot. The large arbor spool is uniquely machined with subtle asymmetries that brings perfect balance without a counterweight. The supercharged conical drag provides more than 12lbs of smooth stopping power in 1/2lb increments. Certified waterproof to 100 feet and shielded with a tough saltwater proof Micralox finish.

Lamson Guru S Reels

The Guru Series II features faster retrieve rates with opened porting which reduces weight and improves line drying. The integrated counterbalance and curved cross section arbor have increased the strength of the reels while reducing their weight. The Heavy Duty (HD) versions are great affordable saltwater or Spey reels and have an all-enclosed spool design, perfect when using thin running lines.

Lightest machined fly reel on the market

Lamson Force SL Series II Reels

The upgraded Lamson Force Superlight (SL) reel goes a step further than its legendary predecessor, with an even lighter design and refined style. This is the lightest machined fly reel on the market, featuring an even larger arbor than the previous model to increase line retrieval speed. For the highest possible retrieve rate to reel weight ratio, look no further than the Force Superlight (SL).

BEGINNER'S GUIDE

FLY LINES FOR SINGLE-HANDED RODS

Simon Ganesworth
RIO Products

Choosing the correct fly line to balance your fly rod and to best serve the intended purpose of the line is critical to fly fishing success. Your rod and line must work together to make casting and fishing a pleasure and the wrong choice of line can make even the best fly rod cumbersome and uncooperative.

Fly line construction and jargon explained

Fly lines have two components, the inner core and the outer coating.

The core

Every fly line has a core that runs through the centre of the line. The core provides the strength of the line and is a major factor in how stiff (or supple) the line is. The core also controls how much stretch there is in a line, with ultra-low stretch cores providing greater feel and control in casting and fishing techniques and more stretchy cores providing greater shock absorption with super light tippets. Core strengths vary from 15lb to 70lb depending on design criteria and line size and it makes sense not to use a leader that is stronger than the core of your fly line.

Some fly lines are manufactured much stiffer than others – usually lines that are designed for hot, tropical conditions. Using regular 'cold water' coating fly lines in high temperatures will result in a very limp, soft fly line that doesn't shoot and has great problems holding a loop shape. If used in cool/normal UK conditions these lines are usually stiff and wiry and need to be stretched before they can be used.

The coating

The core of a line is surrounded by a plastic coating that is bonded to the core. The coating influences the line's shape, weight and density.

Shape

Line manufacturers vary the shape of a fly line to make it perform in different ways. This shape is called the 'profile' of the line and features a variety of different taper and diameter changes along the line's length. These taper changes determine the line's casting behavior. For example, a line with a long front taper and a light front end lands softly on the water and is great for presentation but would be useless with a heavy fly or in a tough wind. A line with a lot of weight at the front end, and a short front taper, would be far better suited for these more challenging conditions.

Within the fly line world, there are two generally used line shapes: a 'weight forward' and a 'double taper'. As the name suggests, weight forward lines have most of the weight at the front end, and a very thin 'running line' behind this weight. The thin running line has less friction and drag than the head, which makes it easy to shoot line and get distance. A much lesser used line shape these days is the 'double taper', which is a fat line for most its length but with a taper to a thin tip at each end.

Weight

Fly lines are generally made to an industry standard weight called the AFTM standard. The purpose of this standard is to help anglers match a fly line to a rod they have bought. The standard is a number given to both line and rod (usually between 1 and 12) that ensures matching numbered fly lines and fly rods balance and load perfectly. For example, put a 6wt line on a 6wt rod and a 2wt line on a 2wt rod, and so on. The standard is actually based on the weight of the first 30 feet of line, not the entire line.

Density

The density of the coating determines whether the line floats or sinks. Floating lines have tiny 'microspheres' to make them float and may also incorporate a hydrophobic chemical to repel water. Sinking lines have tungsten added to the coating to make them sink, the amount of tungsten in the coating influencing the sink rate of the line. Lines can sink at any speed between 1 and 8 inches per second.

A fly line is usually designated by a code on the front of the box, something like 'WF6F'. Usually the first two letters of this code tell you the shape (profile) of the line, the number tells you the size (weight) of the line, and the last letter tells you if it floats or sinks. In this example 'WF' means it is a 'weight forward' line, '6' means it is for a 6wt rod, and 'F' means that it floats. If it had an 'S' at the end, it would mean that the line would sink, and a number after the S tells you how fast it sinks. For example, a 'WF7S6' is a weight forward, 7wt sinking line that sinks at 6 inches per second.

Anatomy of a typical 'weight-forward' fly line

Tip – This section attaches to the leader and may feature a loop for this purpose. It is short, usually 6-12", to allow for the trimming necessary to fit new braided loops etc. without depleting the tapered section.

Front taper – This section, typically 4'-8", increases in diameter as it recedes from the tip. The longer, finer and more gently it tapers the more delicately the fly will be delivered, although such lines will perform poorly with large flies and when casting into the wind.

Body – This thicker section is its engine room, the longest part of the taper that transmits the full energy of the cast.

Rear taper – Here the line reduces in diameter again and can vary in length from 1 foot to as much as 25 feet depending on what the line is designed to do.

Head – The 'head' of a fly line incorporates the front taper, the body and the rear taper and it is usually the weight of this head that gives the line its size.

Running line – This level section attaches to the backing on the reel. Its thin diameter and light weight means there is little drag when making the final cast, allowing anglers to make longer casts.

Scientific Anglers Ultimate Scandi Taper (UST) SD Shooting Heads

Scientific Anglers UST SD textured shooting heads are built on a classic Scandi Taper which enables you to cast a long line with minimal effort. They come in a wide range of sink rates according to the depth and speed you want to fish at.

This family of shooting heads is packed with the latest technological developments that Scientific Anglers has to offer.

- Powerful tapers designed to quickly load modern rods, turning over heavy flies and long sink tips while maintaining accuracy
- Hi-Vis section at the rear end of the head to help line control and casting
- Seamless Density sinking technology provides a super-smooth transition between different sinking sections of the line, providing a straight-line connection to the fly

Code 21A0062 £79.99

Scientific Anglers Ultimate Scandi Taper (UST) Short Shooting Heads

The UST Short textured shooting heads are a shorter and more aggressively tapered version of Scientific Anglers' UST shooting heads and are designed for casting heavy tube flies and fast sinking tips. This head is also a great choice for fishing in challenging windy conditions.

- Aggressive taper for enhanced distance and power, capable of throwing the heaviest flies in your box
- Quickly loads fast actioned fly rods
- Featuring Seamless Density technology for a steady sink rate, and a High-Vis rear section

Seaguar Grand Max Fluorocarbon Tippet

The abrasion resistance and invisibility of Grand Max ensure that fish are neither spooked nor lost. Grand Max is slightly softer than Rivege fluorocarbon and has a higher breaking strain for diameter. It has been extensively tested and is the first choice fluorocarbon with many stillwater and river anglers. Code 11284

Frog Hair Fluorocarbon Tippet

Unlike other fluorocarbons that are very rigid and stiff, Frog Hair Fluorocarbon is processed to increase the flexibility of the material and provide up to two times the suppleness of other fluorocarbon. The added suppleness complements the refractive qualities of fluorocarbon to deliver the most stealthy, drag-free presentation possible and increase your catch rate.

Varivas Standard Tapered Leaders

A versatile tapered leader design from Varivas. Built with an olive green butt section running towards a clear forward section, using Varivas' new 'smooth tech coating' for increased durability, better abrasion resistance and reduced friction. These leaders are also treated with a special non-stress resin coating to ensure low memory and to prevent any unwanted water absorption. A great leader choice for both fresh and saltwater applications.

MIKAEL FRÖDIN SALMON FLIES

All my flies are made with care and consistency by the best commercial tyers in the industry. Many of my patterns are designed by our team members and it is important to me that these flies are copied as closely as possible. To be frank with you some of them are even improved by the factory. The flies are tied with high quality materials and no shortcuts are taken so we are sure to provide you with really good looking, durable flies that are made to give you a great experience.

ASK THE EXPERTS

Mikael Frödin

CLASSIC SERIES

All £7.99

Mikael Frödin's most successful patterns all have their origins within this family. These classic flies are tied with collar hackles in front of the wing and a 1/2 turbo cone to create turbulence, translucency and a broad profile. Different cones give different shapes and profiles. The regular cone for the slimmest fly and turbo cones for the fastest flies with the broadest profile. These flies will work in a wide variety of conditions, depths and speeds.

FF-CSBS Black and Silver
Size 6cm, 8cm

FF-CSIFL In Flames
Size 6cm, 8cm

FF-CSMB Mikkeli Blue

Size 6cm, 8cm

FF-CSMS Moonshine
Size 6cm, 8cm

SAMURAI SERIES

All £7.99

A super modern sunray type pattern with an elongated teardrop shape. Tied with a small turbo cone and a long straight wing. Samurais seem to work when nothing else does – fish them as fast as you dare and hold onto your rod!

FF-SSAL Ally Samurai
Size 4cm, 8cm, 12cm

FF-SSZB Zebra Samurai
Size 4cm, 8cm, 12cm

FF-SSSL Silver Samurai
Size 4cm, 8cm, 12cm

FF-SSGR Green Samurai
Size 4cm, 8cm, 12cm

MICRO SERIES

All £6.99

These micro classics are perfect for when a little more subtlety is needed. Note the class teardrop shape, "no-body" construction, super soft materials and the micro turbo cone. Fish these micro catchers either up near the surface or down deep.

FF-MSDS Dee Sheep Micro
Size 1.5cm, 3cm

FF-MSPK Pahtakorva Micro
Size 1.5cm, 3cm

FF-MSWG Willie Gun Micro
Size 1.5cm, 3cm

FF-MSGL Greenlander Micro
Size 1.5cm, 3cm

TTT NOBODY SERIES

All £7.99

These small weighted tubes with the new Tungsten Turbo Tube and soft hackles will out swim everything. The small turbo cone with the soft mini marabou hackles and the tapered wing creates a fly that looks like it will bite the leader and swim off by itself.

FF-TSNB Nasty Banana TTT
Size 3cm, 6cm

FF-TSIFL In Flames TTT
Size 3cm, 6cm

FF-TSWG Willie Gun
Size 3cm, 6cm

FF-TSPK Pahtakorva
Size 3cm, 6cm

HITCH SERIES

All £4.99

Hitch Flies

Fish these with a micro hitch to create a small "V" on, in or just under the surface.

Tri Turbo Bomber

A high skating bomber with a reversed rubber turbo cone. Watch out for explosive surface takes.

FF-HFBS Black Simple Hitch
Size 1.5cm, 3cm

FF-HFGL Greenlander Hitch
Size 1.5cm, 3cm

BOMBER SERIES

All £7.99

C&F DESIGN

C&F boxes are the highest standard plastic boxes available. Rounded edges and serrated surfaces ease handling and help them slip in and out of bags. The C&F slit foam is the best in the business, wedging the fly at the bend in the hook, not the point.

C&F LARGE WATERPROOF CASES

These waterproof C&F cases are made from strong ABS plastic with rounded edges and a serrated surface for ease of handling. They are smooth to get in and out of a vest or jacket pockets. The waterproof silicone tube seals are locked tight by full length heavy duty catch and stainless steel hinges. Waterproof cases measure 20 x 11 x 4cm.

CF3510F

Waterproof, slit-foam case with swing leaf for small flies. 4 slit-foam faces. 10 foam pockets in the lid and base and 10 foam pockets on each side of the swing leaf. Holds up to 900 flies.

Weight: 216g

Code 60433 £44.99

CF3308

Waterproof, slit-foam and compartment case for standard flies. 8 foam pockets in the lid and 12 individual compartments in the base.

For most fly fishers waders are essential gear for both river and stillwater angling and today's angler has more choice than ever before with modern materials, such as GORE-TEX®, making wearing them a comfortable and pleasant experience.

Non-breathable waders

Non-breathable waders are constructed from materials such as neoprene, PVC or nylon. They come with boots attached, which can have studded or cleated soles, and they are a less expensive option for infrequent fishers, for emergency use or for pond maintenance etc.

Breathable waders

Breathable waders are all about comfort. They are lightweight and, importantly, wick moisture away from the body so that even in tough conditions you forget you are wearing them and can just concentrate on your fishing. Breathable waders perform well in both warm and cold conditions but it is important what you wear underneath them. Jeans are not suitable as they act as a barrier to moisture control, so it is important to wear appropriate wicking base layers.

Breathable waders fit better than other types of wader, for example the Simms G3 range comes in 25 different sizes. It is important to get a good fit, not just for comfort and looks, but ill-fitting waders with excess material can wear prematurely and you don't want excess material flapping around your legs when wading in a fast flow.

Wading boots

Most breathable waders come with neoprene stocking feet and so require separate wading boots. Modern wading boots offer excellent comfort and ankle support and come in different sole options. Specialist treads, such as Simms Vibram® Idrogrip, feature the latest components to maximise underfoot stability and slip resistance.

Felt soles

Felt soles have been around for a long time and offer excellent grip on rock and gravel, however they are prone to slip on wet grass, mud and snow and metal studs can be added to help grip in these more slippery conditions. In some parts of the world felt soles are banned due to the risk of accidental transportation of invasive species, so it is advisable to check before travelling.

Rubber soles

Rubber soles are great for general all round use, generally giving better grip on mud, wet grass and snow and they can also be studded or cleated for extra grip if required.

The choice of felt or rubber is down to personal preference and to experience in different terrains; frequent fishers may carry both options to cater for all situations.

There are many different breathable waders on the market at various price points and the best are a good combination of breathability with durability. If you are a regular fisher then breathable waders are the recommended option and taking a little extra care of them will greatly extend their useful life.

Breathable wader care and maintenance

Pinholes, scrapes and tears

The most common problems that occur in GORE-TEX® and other breathable garments are pinholes, scrapes and tears (we use the term 'pinhole' to identify any small violation of the breathable fabric that allows moisture to penetrate the interior of the garment) and these are usually caused by thistles, thorns, hooks and sharp rocks etc.

Most thistles and thorns are deflected by the fabric, but sooner or later some of them will find a way through the weave and cause leaks. To avoid this, think carefully when walking the banks and go around thorn bushes or other potentially damaging objects, instead of right through them, and don't sit on any rough or sharp surfaces.

Inner leg abrasion

Inner leg abrasion is usually related to wrong sizing or heavy wear and is caused by the fabric inside the legs rubbing together when walking. Selecting the right size when making your purchase is extremely important to ensure that you prolong the life of your waders. You should also note that long days of walking and wading may result in fabric abrasions along the back edge of the seam, this is easy to repair and is a common wear and tear issue.

Proper care and storage

After each fishing session make sure to allow the product to dry properly before you store it.

Waders, jackets and packs etc. should be hung in a vented, warm and dry place and all boots should be properly dried before being put away. If clothes or boots/shoes are stored wet or damp then over time mildew, a form of fungus, will start to grow on them and this has the potential to cause severe damage.

On waders and jackets mildew causes problems such as seam tape lifting (the seam tape on neoprene feet and GORE-TEX® seam tape inside the garment comes off).

Delaminating of the fabric can also occur. Common for all products is that the growth of mildew starts a general material breakdown as it produces enzymes that convert the cellulose or protein in the fabric into the compounds on which it feeds - basically specking, mildew slowly breaks down the garment and eats it!

After gear is properly dried it should always be stored in a cool, dry environment with adequate ventilation. If a product is infested by mildew it should be isolated by sealing it in a polythene bag and either disposed of immediately, or sent to trained professionals for decontamination.

Self-repairs

If you get leaks along any seam in a waterproof, breathable garment you should not do a self-repair to those areas. Most reported seam leaks are, in fact, pinholes along the seam tape and not a true seam leak. Aquaseal or other adhesives do not come off and any self-repair that is done along a seam may potentially void your warranty as we cannot remove and correct the problem without destroying the seam. We understand why a self-repair may need to be done in the field, but please understand that we may not be able to correct the problem if the seam has been altered or covered in adhesive.

ReviveX® application and upkeep

Over time and with exposure to rushing water, long days in the rain, dirt and other factors your GORE-TEX® garment may begin to ‘wet out’ and no longer repel water effectively from the surface fabric. This is usually a result of the DWR (Durable Water Repellency) wearing off. Although water isn’t leaking all the way through the garment, it may feel and look like it is because ‘wet out’ reduces breathability and creates excess interior condensation making you feel damp and cold. It is easily addressed with the use of ReviveX® but do follow the instructions carefully.

Wading Safety

Every year there are wading accidents, some of which are fatal. Many could be avoided by wearing a lifejacket and following some simple guidelines. Here are some ground rules for staying safe:

- Wading is a learned skill so don’t be surprised when the ghillie wades to mid-river without blinking! You must take your time and always err on the side of caution
- Wading deep can scare the fish; cast to areas in excess of thigh-depth from the shallows - wading deeper will only disturb your quarry and hinder casting
- Always wear an automatic lifejacket designed to keep your head above water. If you fall and hit your head, you may not be able to inflate a manual lifejacket even in shallow water
- Have your lifejacket professionally serviced at the end of every season and carry a spare gas cylinder
- Use a wading stick but don’t rely on it! They are best for probing the depth or to lean against if you get in trouble
- Beware the fast water at the tail of a pool where the current can draw the gravel from under your feet, making it impossible to keep balance
- Don’t wade fast water with a net on your back. If you fall it could catch on rocks and impede your recovery
- Always carry spare clothes in your vehicle, especially in spring and autumn. Wet clothing makes you very cold very quickly if you fall in
- Don’t fish alone if possible. A fellow angler could save your life
- There is always tomorrow – don’t take unnecessary risks

Patagonia Foot Tractor Wading Boots

The Patagonia Foot Tractor wading boots, built by Danner in Portland, Oregon, USA, are the finest wading boots you can buy and are both durable and repairable. The Foot Tractor boots feature full-grain leather treated with a proprietary tanning process that gives them toughness and longevity. Unlike synthetic boots, the full-grain leather shapes to your foot for a fit like no other wading boot. Speed lacing allows you to tighten down the upper and provides great ankle support. For faster drying times and to quickly clear water the boots have perforated drain holes on both sides. The boot upper, with its heavy-duty nylon upper panels, is stitched to a 5mm rubber top midsole giving you stability underfoot when you are in or near the water. The bottom midsole is made from water-resistant polyurethane which adds comfort, support and toughness. The boots feature Danner's "Recraftable Stitchdown Construction" which means that if after many years you wear down the soles of your boots the stitchdown construction allows for your boots to be returned and resoled. The Foot Tractor boot is available with three sole options.

- A Vibram® Idrogrip Rubber. This "sticky" rubber offers incredible durability and grip on wet rocks. Each pair comes with a pack of studs.
- B Felt. Studs can be screwed into this solid felt sole for added grip.
- C Aluminium Bars. A combination of Vibram® Idrogrip and aluminium bars. Supplied with an extra set of aluminium bars free of charge.

Key Features

- Waterproof treated full-grain leather
- Durable and repairable "Recraftable Stitchdown Construction"
- Two layer midsoles
- Durable heavy-duty nylon upper side panels
- Perforated quick drain holes
- Adjustable lacing system
- Choice of three sole options

Patagonia River Salt Wading Boots

Patagonia River Salt Wading Boots are also hand built by Danner in the USA and are designed with a lighter weight for wet-wading, flats-fishing and long walks to your favourite fishing spots. The River Salt boots also feature the same waterproof full-grain leather, dual-sided perforated drain holes, heavy-duty nylon upper panels and durable and repairable "Recraftable Stitchdown Construction" as found in the award-winning Foot Tractor wading boots. The adjustable speed lacing with the non-metal, rust-proof, lace guides ensures that a quick pull results in a precise and secure fit over the forefoot and right through to the ankle. The River Salt boots use an innovative one-piece bi-fit board midsole that combines the shank, lasting board and midsole, significantly reducing weight without sacrificing support and protection. The non-marking and boat friendly Vibram® Megagrip rubber sole is designed for maximum grip on both wet and dry surfaces and can accept studs.

Key Features

- Waterproof treated full-grain leather
- Durable and repairable "Recraftable Stitchdown Construction"
- A one-piece bi-fit board midsole
- Durable heavy-duty nylon upper side panels
- Perforated quick drain holes
- Adjustable non-rust lacing system

BEGINNER'S GUIDE

THE ART OF FLY TYING

Ben Beckwith
Sportfish Game Fishing
Centre

Fly tying, or entomology binding for the more scientifically minded, is a natural progression in the career of a fly fisherman or woman and is simply the art of creating an artificial imitation using a variety of furs, feathers and other materials to fool your target species.

This age-old traditional art has, however, evolved markedly in more recent years and now new ranges of modern, machine-made synthetic materials allow us to push the boundaries of fly fishing, tie ever different patterns, and chase hundreds of different species in both fresh and saltwater. In addition to the usual trout and salmon species we now fish for everything from bonefish to pike and from GTs to mahseer with artificial flies and the current trends in materials are opening ever more doors to more adventurous anglers.

Tying your own flies allows you to add a new dimension to your fishing by giving you the opportunity to create new patterns that the fish haven't seen before, or that aren't commercially available, and this can give you a huge edge over other anglers. For many, there is also a greater satisfaction to be gained from catching a fish that you have fooled with a pattern that you invented, or that you tied yourself. There are no hard and fast rules when it comes to tying so you are only limited by your own imagination and it is often that little extra trigger or slight variation in material that can set your pattern apart from everybody else and bring more fish to the net.

Getting started in tying can be a daunting prospect, with the myriad of products on the market it can be very difficult for a beginner to know where to start. Which vice do you buy? What tools do you need? What materials? What hooks? The list is seemingly endless and it can all be very confusing, but don't panic – it's not actually as difficult as you may think and the Sportfish team is always happy to help.

Tying vices

Your vice is likely to be your single biggest investment during your tying career and there are hundreds on the market that range greatly in both price and quality; you can start from as little as £30 and go up to as much as £500. Vices come as either a pedestal or clamp base. The clamp is easier for travelling with as they are generally small and lightweight, whereas a pedestal base offers solid seating on a desk at home but is cumbersome and heavy to travel with. Remember though, it's always possible to find somewhere to place a pedestal but it's not always possible to find somewhere to screw a clamp.

Things to consider when choosing your vice

What type of flies am I going to tie?

Most modern vices cater for the whole variety of different patterns that you will choose to tie, with the ability to tie anything from a #6 to a #20. However, if you are looking for a more specialised piece of equipment for much larger flies when targeting saltwater and large freshwater species then there are vices that can cover that too.

Will I be travelling with my vice?

There are travel vices available on the market, but the real issue is that they are just for travel, and perhaps not so useful for when you are at home. They are ideal if you do a lot of travel, and something like the C&F Marco Polo set is a fantastic product for travel – it has a vice, a stunning selection of tools, a hook tray and a strong box to keep it all safe. However, if you don't travel as much, then the lightweight HMH or Anvil vices will suffice with G-clamps.

What is my budget?

It is generally recommended that you buy the best vice you can afford and it is a worthwhile investment as many of the premium vices come with a lifetime guarantee, such as HMH and Dyna-King.

Tools

Tools can be another big investment but when getting started you will not need many, just the essentials. As you progress other tools will become necessary to construct more advanced patterns and tying techniques.

The key essentials are as follows:

Bobbin holders

The first item on your tool shopping list will be a bobbin holder and there are two main styles that we use: cheaper stainless bobbins, or more expensive ceramic lined types.

Ceramic models offer you a smoother thread feed and are less prone to wear and tear, both of themselves and the thread. A rotary whip finish tool will allow you to finish your creations securely and easily to avoid your flies falling apart and putting all your hard work to waste.

Dubbing needles

A dubbing needle, or bodkin, is essential for applying varnish to your finished fly and for teasing bushy fibres to create a 'scruffier' and 'leggier' appearance on your patterns. This is often essential when tying traditional wet or dry flies. For these flies, you will also need hackle pliers to accurately and easily wrap the hackle around your desired fly.

Scissors

Scissors with a sharp set of blades and fine points are essential and like your vice these are an investment as the better the pair, the neater and more precise you can make your cuts. With a quality pair of scissors you should be able to cut an individual hair on a small dry fly. Tungsten carbide blades are perfect but try to avoid cutting tinsel and wire as they tend to dull the blades. In the case of wire, tie it off tightly and then wiggle it around until it breaks – this leaves a much neater head and saves your scissors.

Hooks

Hooks can be very confusing when you are a beginner as there are so many shapes, sizes and wire gauges to consider. Each design has its own use and this needs to be carefully considered, for example dry flies require a lighter gauge wire so as not to pull your fly underwater whereas a lure, nymph or wet fly requires a heavier gauge to help your fly fall naturally through the water column.

Materials

When choosing starter materials there are two main options.

- You can purchase a fly-tying starter set that comes with a good selection of materials and details of the patterns you can tie with them. This is a superb base from which you can slowly build up your materials and pattern selections.
- The second approach is to look at the type of fishing you mostly do, be that river, lake or reservoir, and select some of your 'go to' patterns that you would like to recreate and buy the specific materials that you need to create them.

Whichever route you take, you will be amazed just how many different flies you can tie with a relatively small selection of materials.

PROFESSIONAL TYING VICES

HMH vices have been satisfying the needs of professional, production, and amateur fly tyers for more than thirty years.

Their vices are precision machined from stainless and tool steels with machined brass fittings. Each vice is hand fitted and tuned for optimum performance. Everything is guaranteed for life. They don't go in for a lot of the frills you see on many vices today, instead they prefer that you spend your money on what's more important – a simple, solid, and fast tool with great jaws, that will last you a lifetime.
